international destination for Australia’s core golf tourists, accounting for 34% of all international golf trips. It is reported that the average core golf tourist spend on international golf trips is $7,380. It also noted that golf tourists are twice as likely to book an international golf holiday through a specialist golf travel agent as compared to booking domestic trips. Globally, it is estimated the value of golf tourism exceeds $25 billion and is still growing. This reality is being recognized on the international stage with numerous national tourism organizations and government incorporating golf tourism as a key component of wider national tourism development strategies. Established and emerging markets, including Scotland, New Zealand, Indonesia and Malaysia, have recently developed specific golf tourism strategies. Tourism Thailand has recently teamed up with the country’s best golf clubs, hotels and resorts to promote golf tourism under the Golf in Kingdom banner in order to grow Thailand into a global golf tourism leader.
